

PETER ROBINSON'S
D.C.I. ALAN BANKS

A former member of the London Metropolitan Police, Inspector Alan Banks leaves the capital for a quieter life in Eastvale in the Yorkshire Dales. Hoping to get away from it all, Banks finds that violent crime thrives everywhere. Although he generally works well with his colleagues, his outsider stance and introspective nature let him perceive clues overlooked by others and he is usually unhampered by preconceptions.

PETER ROBINSON

Peter Robinson (b. 1950) is a Canadian crime writer born in Britain. Born in Leeds, Yorkshire, Robinson earned his BA in English Literature at the University of Leeds and then emigrated to Canada and took his MA in English and Creative Writing at the University of Windsor, with Joyce Carol Oates as his tutor, then a PhD in English at York University. He has taught at a number of Toronto community colleges and universities.

He is best known for his crime novels featuring Inspector Alan Banks. . Since 2010 several of the novels have been adapted for television under the series title DCI Banks with Stephen Tompkinson in the title role.

Readers appreciate the sub-plots that involve Banks' detective colleagues and his personal life, as well as the vividly detailed settings, evocative atmosphere, intriguing crime stories, and solid, often dangerous, procedural work that produces satisfying resolutions. He has also published a number of other novels and short stories.

Robinson now divides his time between Toronto and Richmond, North Yorkshire.
