

Friends of the GPL – Books in Bloom

Saturday, May 17, 2025 — 6:30 to 9:00 PM

Exhibitor’s Information Sheet – please submit by April 28

Books in Bloom is a community event that helps the Friends of the Georgetown Peabody Library raise significant funds in support of the library. Tickets will be offered, and the price of admission includes wine, refreshments, and music.

You are invited to illustrate a book of your choice with an arrangement using flowers (fresh, dried, silk, etc.) and/or some other medium or props depicting the book’s theme. You have the option to donate your arrangement, and event attendees have the opportunity to participate in a raffle for each donated arrangement. Event attendees will also have a chance to vote for the People’s Choice award, given to the arrangement with the most votes.

There is no charge for submitting an exhibit for the event.

Please bring your exhibit and your book to the library by 4 PM on 5/17/25

(You may borrow your book from the library for the display if you reserve the book in advance.)
